ECORA, the 16-month-old daughter of Simon P. Eggertsen, Jr., met with an accident last evening that has caused her to suffer much pain. The family had just returned from the grove where the members of the second ward had been out enjoying a picnic party. A hot fire was burning in the kitchen stove and the child's mother proceeded to mix bread before retiring, and took from the tea kettle a quart cup full of scalding hot water. She set the cup down on the table, while she went to pour some cold water back into the kettle. While her back was turned the child ran to the table reached up and caught hold of the cup containing the hot water. She tipped the cup and the water poured down over her face and breast. Large, sore and ugly blisters were raised on the little one's hands, chin and chest, and she is suffering tortures today, but the sores will soon heal. They are not at all dangerous, but very very painful.

HANS CARLSTON of Fairview was in the city today and paid to Clerk Beasley of the First District court the sum of $148.08, the fine imposed upon Samuel Porter, ex-postmaster of Fairview now serving a term of eighteen months imprisonment in the penitentiary for embezzlement of the amount of the fine imposed. Mr. Carlston is consulting a peon and asking the Governor West to pardon Porter, and the petition is being highly signed. Porter prior to this offense always bore a good reputation and since his conviction has sold his home and all he has to liquidate the government's claim against him. His trouble, the petition sets forth, came upon him more because of his carelessness and lack of knowledge of keeping books rather than through criminal intent. His postoffice was also broken into and some money stolen before he was arrested for the offense of which he was convicted. His friends claim that the missing money was taken by burglars and not by Mr. Porter.

Boys and Their Playmates.

Don't snub a boy because he wears shabby clothes. When Edison, the inventor, first entered Boston, he wore a pair of yellow linen breeches in the depth of winter.

Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespeare, the world's poet, was the son of a man who was unable to write his own name.

Don't snub a boy because his home is plain and unpretending. Abraham Lincoln's early home was a plain and unpretending log cabin.

Don't snub a boy because he chooses a humble trade. The author of "Pilgrim's Progress" was a tinker.

Don't snub a boy because of his physical disability. Milton was blind.

Don't snub a boy because of dullness in his lesson. Hogarth, the celebrated painter and engraver, was a stupid boy at his books.

Don't snub a boy because he stutters. Demosthenes, the great orator of Greece, overcame a harsh and stammering voice.

Don't snub him for any reason, not only because he may some day outstrip you in the race of life, but because it is neither kind nor right.—New York Recorder.

An Italian Game.

A traveler describes a game which is popular with the children of Italy. It is very like one played by American children. In Italy the game is called counting the eggs, and is thus played: The children sit in a row on the grass, with every pair of brown feet well in sight. The mother counts her eggs—first, the children's feet—and then says: "Now, there are 18 eggs. Be sure you don't eat any while I go to church." In her absence the children tuck up a certain number of feet under their frocks and say, "What a long time mother is at church!" She comes home, counts the eggs and says: "Why, how is this? I left 16 and now there are only ten." The children answer that a woman came while she was gone and offered four chickens for the six eggs, and they took her offer. "Where are the eggs?" asked the mother. "Down in the field," they reply. The mother goes to seek them, and no sooner is her back turned than all her children jump and dance about, shouting, "We've eaten them ourselves," whereupon the mother has to catch them all and whip them. The last one caught has to be the mother this next time.

Albuquerque, N. M., was named for the Spanish from a town of the same name in Spain, which took its title from Alfonso d'Albuquerque, a famous Portuguese soldier.

The Ladies.

The pleasant and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

To The Meat-Eating Public:

One McPherson, who through the press of the city, acknowledges himself to be a "would-be butcher" in a poetical effusion intimates that the Provo Meat Company

"Mean to Cheat the Poor."

Sell "something (not) fit to eat."

Slaughter for sale, "horse or big jawed cow."

Sell "larded meats beneath the skin."

"I am, I said, as manager of the Provo Meat Company, charge and brand as FALSE, ABSOLUTELY FALSE."

Bring on Your Proof.

We have no official meat inspector in the city but I challenge and court the careful examination of all my goods by the WHOLE PUBLIC.

I have charged that my would-be competitor copied my advertisement—his advertisement was an exact reproduction of mine, including even the motto.

I have charged that he did not have the meats on hand which he advertised. Today with a representative of each of the Provo papers with me as witnesses, I called at his place of business and asked for Hamburg steak, for link sausage, for dried beef, for spring lamb. He did not have the meats on hand. These meats and others he advertised as having on hand, and hasn't had them on hand for weeks.

Read my Ads.—I have all I advertise on hand.

Best goods, lowest prices, courteous treatment. None but experienced butchers employed.

Yours For Trade,

PROVO CITY, June 13, 1895.
